

The DTU Law and Economic Law Degree Program: A Mission of Justice

In these times of global integration, it is essential that universities graduate experts in national and foreign laws to meet increasing international demand. Vietnam's economy is developing steadily, with many new multinational businesses emerging. At the same time, workforce requirements are diversifying because of evolving partnerships and competition, so the study of Economic Law is now more important than ever as companies need to fully understand current legislation to expand effectively.

DTU holds supplementary student seminars as part of the Law program

DTU has been focusing on improving education standards by offering majors in Law and Economic Law to applicants who are eager to pursue a career in those subjects. Students gain an in-depth knowledge of legal matters, taught the prerequisite special terminology and develop special skills, including advanced abilities in legal reasoning, consulting, the resolution of economic law issues and how to work individually or in a team. Meanwhile, they perfect their English, negotiation, communication and presentation skills and gain self-confidence.

DTU holds many seminars for students to update knowledge of law

DTU Law students learn about the basics of Law and, depending on the minor they choose, additional special topics, including Banking & Finance Law, Land Law, the Labor Code, Administration Law, Commercial Law, Medical Ethics, Enterprise Law, Lawyer Ethics & Regulation, Intellectual Property Law, Criminal Procedure and have access to multimedia and legal practice rooms, the Center for Socioeconomic Research and the Center for Legal Consulting.

DTU uses the advanced, international Problem-Based Learning / Project-Based Learning, (PBL), teaching method in Economic Law and has developed an in-depth curriculum, including seminars and Moot Courts, where students learn about the practical work of a lawyer and become familiar with court procedures while still at university.

An Economic Law degree: Guaranteed employment

Global integration has escalated relationships with foreign companies. Law graduates play a vital role in interpreting laws for business startups and economic strategies. Vietnam recently joined the WTO, APEC and CPTPP, (previously the TPP), and Vietnamese companies are now facing increasing opportunities and challenges, providing qualified Economic Law graduates with excellent opportunities to refine their abilities.

DTU students take part in a Moot Court
